Why Education Matters?

By Dr. Pierre

We live and work in a multi-cultural, diverse global economy where the expectations and effort to be a good and influential leader are even greater. The key to becoming an effective leader is to take a practitioner and make him or her a scholar or at least proficient in doing factual research.

Ultimately one needs to be willing to want to search the truth and undergo the needed discipline. Emphasis on the need to search for the truth must be the foundation for any education training.

Time is running out, and we need to close the gap between literacy conditions and literacy expectations. This can only be done with the awareness of why Education is important.

As technology and information become more and more easy to use at everyone's fingertips, we need to put a stop at the unreliability and unpredictability of the quantitative information overload.

A revolution in thinking is required, where one needs to not only appreciate the value of critical thinking but needs to be hungry to know the truth.

Academic Institutions and Professional Training Centers must step up their game and provide the right awareness, training, and insight to make this a successful and non-negotiable journey for every educational believer and non-believer alike.
